date with the Joint Committee week after next, but General Carter is more interested in proceeding with the CIA Committees.

DDI reported on his conversation with General Carroll yesterday. Carroll agrees that economic research for military costing requirements should center around CIA. There was a lengthy discussion of various problems confronting General Carroll's organization. One such problem is the DIA's invitation from JCS to take a hard look at JRC flight forecasts. DDS&T said this problem also confronts us and described current DDI-DDS&T efforts to come 25X1 to grips with this.

General Carter thanked those in attendance for their support and work during the past year, and asked that this thanks be passed on down the line.
